Need Answers for Your Water Research?

Identify keywords

Search Water Resources Archive
http://lib.colostate.edu/archives/water

Did the search return results? NO

YES

Read through finding aid and/or use browser’s “find” function for keyword search within the finding aid

Found what you are looking for?

YES

Congratulations! Your materials will soon be in your hands!

Congratulations! You can use the digital item from anywhere!

NOT SURE

Attention:
Not all collections have online finding aids

Rethink keywords

NO

Found a digital item

Congratulations! You can use the digital item from anywhere!

Found a physical item

Contact the archivist

Make plans to come to the Archive

Make a request for photocopies to be mailed or faxed or for scans

Hint: The archivist can help with advanced searching

If we do not have what you need, we can refer you to another source

Research Success

Hint: Not all collections are on site – some will require an appointment to use

Hint: When using what you found, cite your source and address copyright issues

Brought to you by: Water Resources Archive
The Water Resources Archive preserves the documentation of Colorado’s rich water history. Encompassing engineering, public policy, law, ecology, economics and cultural aspects of water use, the Archive is open to all, free of charge.

Open year-round
8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.
Monday - Friday
Or by appointment
Closed on university holidays
We accept cash or check for photocopying and scanning fees

Phone: (970) 491-1844
Email: Patricia.Rettig@colostate.edu

Colorado State University
Morgan Library, Suite 202
Fort Collins, Colorado 80523-1019

Source: Digital Photographs of Bill Green - Rafting on the Arkansas River in Colorado (on front) Ival V. Goslin Collection - Shoshone Falls